

Adaptations of the Fox 'after his kind.'

THE FOXES OF THE WORLD by Raven/CulpeoFox

Fennec Fox
Vulpes zerda

Red Fox
Vulpes vulpes

Culpeo Fox
Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) culpeus

Darwin's Fox
Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) fulvipes

Kit Fox
Vulpes macrotis

Swift Fox
Vulpes velox

Pale Fox
Vulpes pallida

Hoary Fox
Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) vetulus

Chilla
Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) griseus

Cape Fox
Vulpes chama

Tibetan Fox
Vulpes ferrilata

Rueppells Fox
Vulpes rueppelli

Azaras Fox

Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) gymnocercus

Sechura Fox

Pseudalopex (Dusicyon) sechurae

Indian Fox
Vulpes bengalensis

Blanford's Fox
Vulpes cana

Arctic Fox
Alopex lagopus

Corsac Fox
Vulpes corsac

Bat-eared Fox
Otocyon megalotis

Island Gray Fox
Urocyon littoralis

Maikong
Cerdocyon thous

other fox-like Canines

- Cerdocyon
- Chrysoeyon
- Atelocynus

„True“ Foxes

- Vulpes
- Urocyon (Gray Foxes)
- Otocyon
- Alopex (Arctic Foxes)

Gray Fox
Urocyon cinereoargenteus

Short-eared Dog
Atelocynus (Atelocyon) microtis

Maned Wolf
Chrysoeyon brachyurus

All fossils that don't fit evolution are rejected. However there are no fossils that support the mutation of species . . .

Hence "science" invented the new theory of 'the hypothesis of punctuated equilibrium', meaning that transitional forms existed only for brief periods of time, and so were unlikely to become fossils.

